Definitions of terms:

- “30-day SEC yield” is a standard yield calculation developed by the Securities and Exchange Commission that allows investors to more fairly compare funds.
- Returns are based on the composite closing price and do not represent the returns you would receive if you traded shares at other times.
- The first trading date is typically several days after the fund inception date. Therefore, NAV is used to calculate market returns prior to the first trade date.
- NAV total returns for the fund are used to calculate Growth of $10,000.
Index description

Dow Jones Brookfield Global Infrastructure Composite Index

The Index, constructed and maintained by S&P Dow Jones Indices LLC, consists of companies domiciled globally that qualify as "pure-play" infrastructure companies - companies whose primary business is the ownership and operation of infrastructure assets, activities that generally generate long-term stable cash flows.

Methodology

- The index requires that constituents have more than 70% of cash flows derived from infrastructure lines of business.
- Eligible companies include those in developed markets, and emerging markets companies that are listed on developed market exchanges.
- Constituents must meet minimum liquidity requirements for float-adjusted market capitalization and trading volume.
- The index is weighted by float-adjusted market capitalization.
- Individual stock weights are capped at 10%.
- Country weights are capped at 50%.
- Industry weights are capped at 50%.
- MLPs are capped at 25%.
- Rebalanced quarterly in March, June, September, and December.
- Inception: 7/14/08

Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. This ProShares ETF is diversified and entails certain risks, including imperfect benchmark correlation and market price variance, that may decrease performance. This ETF is subject to risks faced by companies in the infrastructure, energy and utilities industry to the same extent as the Dow Jones Brookfield Global Infrastructure Composite Index is so concentrated. This ETF invests in master limited partnerships (MLPs). Investments in MLPs expose the ETF to certain tax risks associated with investing in partnerships. Changes in U.S. tax laws could revolve the pass-through attributes that provide the tax efficiencies that make MLPs attractive investment structures. MLPs may also have limited financial resources, may be relatively illiquid, and may be subject to more erratic price movements because of the underlying assets they hold. In addition, a portion of the ETF’s distributions may be a return of capital, which constitutes the return of a portion of a shareholder’s original investment. Under tax rules, returns of capital are generally not currently taxable, but lower a shareholder’s tax basis in their shares. Such a reduction in tax basis will result in larger taxable gains and/or lower tax losses on a subsequent sale of shares. International investments may involve risks from geographic concentration, differences in valuation and valuation times, unfavorable fluctuations in currency, differences in generally accepted accounting principles, and economic or political instability. Emerging markets are riskier than more developed markets because they may develop unevenly or may never fully develop. Investments in emerging markets is considered speculative. Please see the summary and full prospectuses for a more complete description of risks. There is no guarantee any ProShares ETF will achieve its investment objective.

Shares of any ETF are generally bought and sold at market price (not NAV) and are not individually redeemed from the fund. Brokerage commissions will reduce returns.

4“Dividend yield” measures what companies in a fund or index pay out in dividends relative to their collective share prices. 5Holdings are subject to change. 6Sum of weightings may not equal 100% due to rounding.
